

the homefront way making selling simple

Getting noticed

Think of one of the top four property portals in the country and you will find Homefront advertising property on them, it is difficult to miss our striking sale boards or sign written cars but in case you do you will always find full page colour advertising in the local press assuring you of an audience of thousands looking for a home like yours.

Be remembered

Getting noticed is simple, being remembered is harder and the best way to ensure people remember your property is to WOW them! We don't enjoy selling property to people who just like a property; it's much more enjoyable when they love them.

Our individually prepared property particulars help to do this by focusing on the best selling features of your property. We employ professional photography techniques, produce graphically illustrated floor plans and above all you will always receive a written detail on your property that is unique and honest, that's a refreshing change.

Personal Service to the End

After we have got your property under offer we guide and support you through the whole moving process monitoring the sales progress and keeping everyone involved updated as developments happen. We dedicate time to following up mortgage valuations, chasing solicitors to answer an enquiry outstanding and constantly manage your buyer, keeping them committed to your property dealing with any queries as they are raised.

No call centres no progress managers just the same person who you felt comfortable dealing with from the start will be there to help you, this personal approach to the business helps keep sales from falling through.
